

A Cycling Journey to the end of the World

4200 km cycling from South to North of Europe through 8 countries

Six Months of practice rides

Bike in a box

Practice Rides in Italy

Signing up for the madness

Race Day Gathering with Indian Contingent

Fully Loaded Bikes Ready for the adventure

Ready to roll on

On the course.. Run up to Italian Alps

Brunner Pass Ahead

Munich: Control Point 1

Berlin: Control Point 2

Copenhagen: Control Point 3

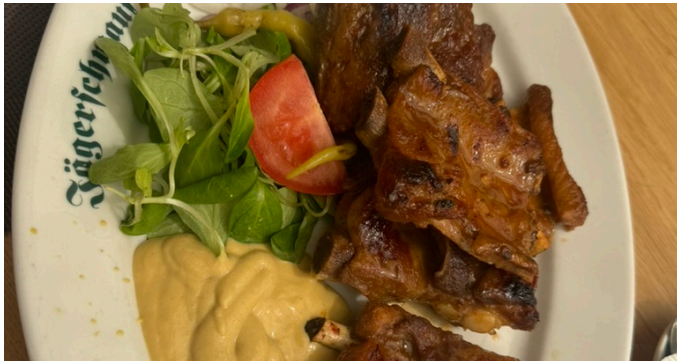

Rovaniemi: ControlPoint 4

From a Midnight Ride

Some Food Snaps

---

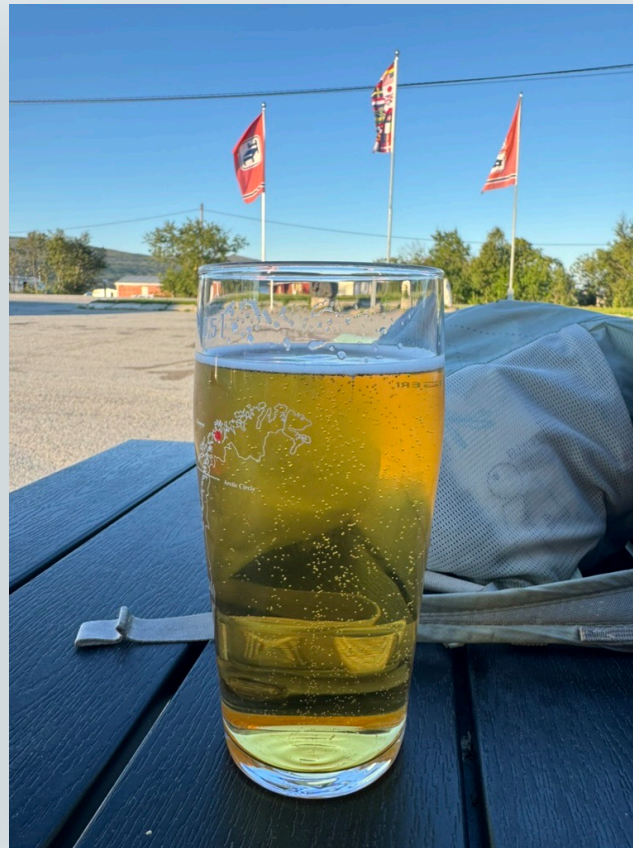

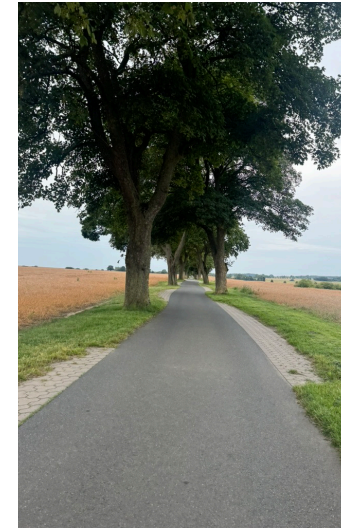

More food

Beer Days

Roads and Cycle Paths

Moments with Co-Riders

---

The Midnight disaster and Our Saviors

Reindeer sightings

Nordkapp Tunnel: Gate of Hell

Midnight Sun at Norway

The final Stretch : Hell of a ride

Moments of Excitement and Relief

Finally.. At the Globe

---

A photograph of two male cyclists standing on a high-altitude mountain peak. They are both wearing cycling gear, including helmets and jerseys with orange, white, and green vertical stripes, which are the colors of the Indian national flag. They are holding a large Indian flag between them. In the background, there is a large, dark, metallic structure, possibly a weather vane or a part of a cable car system, and a clear blue sky. The ground is a light-colored, rocky or concrete surface.

With the Pride of Tri-Color at the top of the world